

Communication Brainstorm

You will work in groups to brainstorm the types of communication used by human beings. Put the type (for example, talking face to face) in the first row. In the second row, write down if it usually involves one way communication where there isn't an expected response (like television-it doesn't expect you to talk back) or a two way form of communication (like talking face to face, where one usually expects a response from the person talked to). In the third row, if it is two way communications, write whether responses can be given instantly, or it takes time to get the answer back). In the fourth row, tell what type of information is usually communicated with this form (i.e. personal information, entertainment, information, etc.). Finally, answer whether this form of communication was used in the past, is used now, or was used both then and now.

Type	One way or two way communication?	Instant or Delayed?	Purpose? (types of information contained)	Now, Then, Or Both?
